What the Postman Brought Me.

By LIEUT.-COL. MRS. READ, Secretary Women's Social Work.

The second is from a young lady who attended a social gathering addressed by the writer some months ago:

"Dear Mrs. Read,—I could not get to sleep to you last night, so I am writing. Please pray for me. I need prayers so much. I shall always thank God for letting me hear you speak. My heart goes out to your work. I did long that I might be able to be that one who said, 'I give you myself.' Over a year ago I felt God called me. I did not see my way, though I wanted to obey. Yet I did not obey. I was afraid to venture or grieve dear father or mother. Have I been happy? A thousand times, No! I have missed the blessings that should be mine. Now, I believe He has forgiven me. What shall I do? My sister is in the field work. I feel drawn to the Rescue work. I leave it with Jesus. Pray for me. I am anxious to do right, but so weak, so weak. My sister sends the War Cry regularly, and mother and I read it. It helps us. May God show you how to advise me! My address is—"

Will not some reader respond in the same way, for officers are yet much needed in the Rescue branch? This is an opportunity to do a work for the Master which angels might covet.

Another is from a gentleman, cultured, educated, and tells the story of his own sorrow. It shows the result of disobeying God's voice when He speaks and calls to His service and to preach the glorious Gospel. This gentleman had all that heart could wish, but is not happy because years ago he resisted the Holy Spirit and refused to follow Jesus as an officer of the Salvation Army. He writes:

"And so I laid down your letter. I reviewed all the chapters of the past since we met, and with my eyes filled with tears and my heart almost at the breaking, I said to myself, 'flute.' You remember Tennyson's lines in 'Locksley Hall':

'This is truth the poet sings,
That a sorrow's crown of sorrows
Is remembering happier things.'

What might my life not have been? What has it been? If you are ever in a 'candidates' meeting again, if you are ever counselling some one to enter the work, remember me and all the unhappiness and uselessness of my life, and tell them, and tell them a sad and again, that there is absolutely no happiness, no peace, no rest to the one whom God has called to the work of saving souls, in any other life.

A little League of Mercy wrap in a League member's letter comes to my hand.

"By the kind permission of the jailer, the prisoners of the county jail were brought together for a special meeting. The members of the League of Mercy were assisted by the string band, which rendered good music, and was enjoyed by the prisoners. The captain sang 'Can a boy forget his mother's prayer?' during the rendering of which we saw conviction stamped on the faces of some of the men. Mrs. — next gave an address. The hearts of the prisoners were touched by the Holy Ghost and tears were brought to many eyes. When the invitation was given, our labors were rewarded by two precious souls seeking deliverance from sin. (And met with them and they both got up from their knees and testified that their sins had been washed away. We then gave them a little treat, which had been prepared for them. We are praying and believing that the seed sown will bring an abundant harvest for the Kingdom.

I might add that one of the men who came out says he is still well saved. He joins heartily in the singing at the jail meeting, the other has been removed to the penitentiary.

"I myself am marching on to victory, proving God faithful to His promise: as my day so shall my strength be. Bless His Name forever and ever."

These devoted workers toil from east to west of this great territory behind the scenes and carry the Gospel message into the dark corners. They are being blessed as they labor, and surely a further blessing is theirs in the great future, when the Master shall recognize their work and crown it with the sweet "Inasmuch."

A letter from a broken-hearted mother about her erring daughter of sixteen, who found it hard to trust in Christ as her Saviour because she could not forgive the author of her fall. The poor child, however, got the victory. She died praying God to forgive him as she forgave him.

"I do not know how to be thankful enough to God for His mercies and to you all for your loving kindness to Sara. I do not see how we are ever to pay you, for we are so very poor. I have no right to take up so much of your time and attention, but you have been such a kind friend to Sara and me, I feel as though I cannot thank you enough. I cannot help but be thankful that God took her innocent little baby home to Himself, but it is all a dreadful dream. I just long to take her in my arms again, poor little girl. It seems too awful to think of. My heart has bled for her every minute since I knew her trouble. If I had had the money I would have gone to her before this. It does seem so hard to think she was dying alone among strangers, but thank God they were such kind ones. Forgive me for writing such a long letter, but it seems so good to think there is somebody I can open my heart to. I have had to keep so much to myself. I know I have much to be thankful for, but I cannot help signing myself a heart-stricken mother. May God bless you and all kind friends."

The reason why we speak of so many of life's experiences as "losses" is because we fail to take account of the gains of which these so-called losses were the price, and which we never should have obtained without them.

Out of suffering have emerged the strongest souls; the most massive characters are seamed with scars; martyrs have put on coronation robes glittering with fire; and through their tears have the sorrowful first seen the gates of heaven.

III.—THE GERMANS.

And when Julius II. died Maximilian actually tried to be elected Pope, thinking that thus he could beat all a council and reform the Church, but he was not attended to, and Pope Leo X. was chosen. All this made foreign nations laugh at him and think him untrustworthy, but his failures were chiefly owing to the disobedience and want of public spirit of the German princes. He once said that the King of France reigned over asses, for they would bear any burden he pleased; the King of Spain was a King of lions, who only submitted in reason; the King of England was a King of angels, who did him willing and faithful service; but the Kaiser reigned over Kings who only obeyed him when they chose.

And that was seldom. The Germans were in a bad state, rude and boorish, too poor and too proud to seek improvement, drunkards, and great sticklers for rank. The free cities were much better in some ways, but two of them actually went to war because a maiden of one refused to dance with a young burgher of the other. Maximilian suffered in authority by the loss of Bohemia, and Switzerland entirely broke off from the Empire; but he did much towards setting things in a better state for the future, by dividing the Empire into circles, Bavaria, Swabia, Franconia, Austria, Burgundy, Upper and Lower Saxony, and Upper and Lower Rhine. A governor was placed over each circle, whose duty it was to carry out the decisions of the diet and to keep order. Austria was kept in excellent order, and there was a court set up to hear appeals from the country. It was called the Aulic Council, from Aul, a hall, and became very important. But do what he would, the Germans had not public spirit enough to join their Kaiser in attacking the Turks, who grew more dangerous every year. Maximilian vainly appealed to them. A very large meteoric stone, which came down near Eudelsheim was held to be a thunderbolt, and Maximilian had it hung up in the Church, to show what might be looked for from the wrath of heaven; but all in vain. No one heeded his warnings.

The wisest man in Germany was the good Elector of Saxony, Frederick, son of the Albrecht who had been stolen. tenberg, and here one of the professors He had founded a University at Wittenberg, the son of a wood-cutter of Thuringia, who had struggled into getting education at the University of Erfurt, and had become a monk. He had been much troubled in mind by the sense of sin, until a good old monk taught him to think most of the merits of his Saviour. He read the Bible with all his might, and became a great preacher, as well as a doctor of theology at Wittenberg. A friar named John Tetzel came to the neighborhood selling indulgences, and saying such shocking things to recruit them, that Luther's spirit was stirred and on the 31st of October, 1517, he nailed to the church door at Wittenberg a paper called a thesis, in which he challenged the whole system on which the sale of indulgences was founded. The thesis was printed, and spread all over Germany, so that there was a vehement controversy, in which Maximilian took some interest. But he was much taken up with trying to secure the Empire to his grandson Charles, and likewise with the endeavor to reduce Germany against the Turks. For this purpose he held a diet at Augsburg, but a knight named Ulrich of Hutten sent around a paper calling the Pope a worse foe to Christendom than the Sultan, and the princes disputed and did nothing. The Kaiser went away grieved, and soon fell ill of a fever, and died at Wols in Austria, in his fifty-ninth year, in 1550. A chest he had always carried about with him for the last four years turned out to be his coffin, and he was buried by his own desire at Neumarkt, though his last wish was for a most beautiful monument at Innsbruck.

Five houses were damaged by a landslide at Levis, Que.

Several buildings at Tadoussac, Que., were destroyed or damaged by fire.

Five stores at London, Ont., were broken into and robbed in one night.

Lady Minto has offered a gold medal for the graduate of the Ontario Normal School of Domestic Science, at Hamilton, who shall pass the examination for teachers with the highest qualifications.

Two spans of the new municipal bridge at Portage la Prairie were carried out by the ice, cutting off communication with the southern country.

William Peor, of Bell's Crossing, hanged himself in a barn, the result of a quarrel prevailing upon his mind.

Edward Laurin was sentenced at Montreal to fourteen years in penitentiary for killing his father's colored coachman.

Mr. and Mrs. James Neelin and a seven-year-old child were asphyxiated at Hamilton, by gas from a furnace, and their recovery is extremely doubtful.

Maurice Forget, who lived north of St. Jovite, Que., stored a lot of dynamite in his cellar. When it exploded he was killed, and his wife and children seriously injured.

McIlroy's three-story grist mill, at Richmond, was burned to the ground. The loss on the building and machinery is about $10,000. Wheat, to the value of about $700 was also destroyed.

Mrs. Chalmers, of Elma, hanged herself in her room with shawl straps.

Harry McMillan has confessed to burning the steamers Glenora and Mona, at Dawson, in order to cover the theft of stores.

Walter Gordon was found guilty at Brandon of the murder of Charles Daw and Jacob Smith, Whitewater farmers.

The Montreal Harbor Commissioners have decided to accept the tender of J. F. Webber, of Buffalo, for a steel elevator, at $804,000.

The steamer Lake Superior, aground near St. John, may be a total wreck, as there are two holes in her and the hull is full of water.

The Marconi Company have signed the contract made with the Dominion Government for the erection of a station on the Atlantic coast.

Thorwald Hansen was found guilty at Montreal of murdering Eric Marotte, a nine-year-old boy, for a few cents, and sentenced to hang on June 13th.

The brigantine Blakely, which sailed from Victoria, B.C., in search of a buried treasure on Cocos Island, has returned, but the result of her voyage is as yet unknown.

The Longshoremen's Union, of Halifax, have decided to go out on strike. Over 600 men will be affected. They have applied to Deputy Minister of Labor King to try and arrange a settlement of the difficulty.

Chas. A. Hendry has been sent to Kingston Penitentiary for six years on each of two charges of stealing money from registered letters, the sentences to run concurrently.

United States.

A man named Barnett fell from the gallery of the Third Avenue Theatre, New York, to the orchestra floor, 80 feet, and as taken to a hospital dying. He brushed the dress of a lady who had just risen from her seat, and broke the seat.

Dr. T. D. English, the author of "Ben Bolt," died at Newark, N.J.

Ten thousand cotton mill operatives are locked out at Augusta, Ga.

A reduction of 50 cents a ton has been made by the Anthracite Coal Association of Pennsylvania.

One thousand men, representing the building trades of Niagara Falls, N.Y., struck for an advanced scale of wages and eight hours' work per day.

Albert T. Patrick, who was convicted on March 26th of the murder of William Marsh Rice, was sentenced by Recorder Gott to be put to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison on May 5th.

While men were excavating in the Hennepin Canal feeder, near Tampico, Ill., they discovered a queer box containing gold coin, to the amount of $3,000, and a large amount of brass pieces. As nearly as could be ascertained, it is thought that the coin is Spanish. Last summer a number of human skulls were found in the canal near Tampico and a treasure box containing about $5,000 in Spanish coin.

Twenty-eight bolting engineers, of Butte, have struck, and, as a result, nine mines of the Amalgamated Copper Company have closed down, and over three thousand men rendered idle pending a settlement of the trouble.

Miss Ellen M. Stone, the missionary, will deliver a series of 100 lectures in the principal cities of the United States.

After falling 300 feet down a mine shaft, at Hibernia, N.J., Andrew Michelliquo, a miner, is still alive, and chances are good for his recovery.

Emigration agents at Antwerp are counseling paupers to Canada, promising them that they can cross the frontier when they get there, and enter the United States. The Greek Consul is known to have despatched 150 Greek paupers. The Red Star Steamship Line refused to transport them to New York, but it is believed that they have entered the United States through Canada. It is reported that thousands of these paupers have entered the United States by way of the frontier.

The fire that has been smoldering in the old No. 2 coal mine of the Union Pacific, at Carbon, Wyo., has broken out afresh, and a force of men is now engaged in wailing up the mouth of the fan shaft, through which the smoke and flames are issuing. About twenty years ago a fire was started in No. 2, and, being unable to control it, the company walled up the shaft. At intervals of two or three years the fire has broken out in new places, and for five consecutive years it burned steadily. The fire has undermined the one country for a radius of a half mile, and miners say it will probably burn for an indefinite period.

The total of killed in the explosion in the Nelson mine, at Dayton, Tenn., will reach about sixteen. Thirteen bodies have been recovered and three more are known to be in the mine. It was discovered that the mine is on fire. The searching party distinctly felt the heat, and were beaten back in their attempts to reach and recover the three remaining bodies in the mine.

Great Britain.

The British ship, Cambrian Princeps was sunk in the Channel in collision with the steamer Alma, and eleven of her crew were drowned.

Natural gas is now used for heating and lighting in Heathfield, England.

Prince Ching's son, with his suite, has left Peking for London, as China's envoy to the coronation.

A vigorous fight is going on in the United Kingdom over the enforcement of an order to abolish barnmaids in Glasgow.

Much interest is felt with respect to the appointment of a successor to Mr. Rhodes on the board of the Chartered Company. The prevailing opinion is that the position will be offered to Mr. Alfred Beit.

Six men were killed as the result of an explosion of fire damp in a colliery at Wigan, Lancashire. A number of men were entombed at Dunfermline, Scotland, owing to a similar accident.

The Earl of Kimberley, Liberal leader of the House of Lords and former Foreign Secretary, is dead.

The American Line Steamer, Philadelphia, which left Southampton for New York, by way of Cherbourg, had on board twenty Sikhs, who recently lived in England from Bombay. They were in charge of a British officer, and are going to Kansas City and Texas to purchase mules for the British army.

The Corriere Della Sera asserts that King Edward abandoned his proposed visit to the Riviera on account of the discovery of an Anarchist plot against his life. The Anarchists proposed to give the appearance of Boer revenge to their operations.

South African News.

A despatch from Lord Kitchener, dated from Pretoria, says Commandant Kritzinger, who was captured by Gen. von French at Hanover Road, Cape Colony, December 17th last, and who has been tried by court-martial on the charge of having committed four murders, in addition to train-wrecking and other cruelty to prisoners, had been acquitted, and is being well treated as an ordinary prisoner of war.

The Militia Department has offered the services of six skilled dental surgeons for service in South Africa.

Thirty-nine soldiers of the Hampshire Regiment were killed and forty-five were injured in a railroad wreck near Barberton, Transvaal Colony.

Caspar Kruger, eldest son of ex-President Kruger, and twenty-four of the same name, have taken the oath of allegiance to Great Britain.

The first party of teachers for South Africa sailed on the Corinthian from Halifax on April 14th.

The War Office has accepted the decision to raise 2,000 mounted men for service in South Africa.

A Columbia decree imposes a war tax of $500,000 a month on the Liberals in the Department of Panama.

Near Heidelberg, Transvaal, a party of constabulary and native scouts was ambushed, and six were killed.

Careful computation gives the strength of the scattered Boer commands at between 8,000 and 9,000 men.

The War Office announces that all despatches relating to the fight at Spion Kop will be published.

Lord Kitchener reports that at least thirty Boers were killed and eighty wounded at Klein Hart's River.

Commandant Erasmus was killed near Beaufort, Orange River Colony, April 3rd.

There was severe fighting all day long on March 31st, in the neighborhood of Harts River, in the southwestern extremity of the Transvaal, between part of General Kitchener's force and the forces of Generals De la Rey and Kemp, resulting in the repulse of the Boers, after heavy losses on both sides. The Canadian Rifles were commanded by Lieut. Bruce Carruthers, who held his post till every man was killed or wounded. The losses were as follows: British, 3 officers and 24 men killed, and 15 officers and 131 men wounded, while the Boers had 127 men killed or wounded. Eleven Canadians died in the night, and twenty-four were wounded.

International Items.

Herr Schleicher, the botanist, declares he has discovered an abundance of rubber and gutta percha trees in German New Guinea. By this discovery Herr Schleicher wins the 3,000 marks prize offered by the Colonial Society for the first person to find such trees in the German colonies.

Yokohama reports forty vessels missing since the storm of Thursday last.

The Johannesburg Town Council has passed an assessment bill to levy rates on land only.

By the collapse of a stand during a big football match at Glasgow, 21 persons were killed, and 250 wounded.

Field Marshal Roberts, for Cebu, the capital of Afghanistan, with 5,000 armed followers.

Premier Seddon, of New Zealand, in announcing that the customs revenue for the year was $21,000 in excess of the estimate, said his government contemplated a rebate of duties on goods manufactured in Great Britain.

General O'Grady-Haly's term as commandant of the militia will expire on June 30th, and Lord Dundonald will assume the command on July 1st.

Two attempts have been made to assassinate M. Trepoff, the Police Prefect in Moscow. While receiving visitors a governor named Allart suddenly drew a revolver, placed its muzzle at the official's breast and pulled the trigger. The weapon missed fire. Again, a man seeking a personal interview with the Prefect, supplied at his office, and upon being refused admittance, drew a dagger and attempted to kill the official in charge of the entrance. Both parties have been arrested.

The Sacred Pool.

(To our frontispiece.)

BY THE EDITOR.

INDIA, the land of the earliest tradition and hoary history, the country of mysteries and superstitions, holds still the great majority of its two hundred and fifty millions of people in the fetters of heathenism. The gods which these multitudes worship are legion, and the rites and formulas, by which they seek to obtain forgiveness of sin and ultimate salvation of the soul are innumerable, extending from the cruel self-sacrifices practiced in manners that sound incredible to occidental ears, to the sacrificing of infants in the sacred rivers.

But in all religion there is some underlying kernel of truth, and without it no system of faith could stand; it is the heaven of truth that upholds the shell of superstition that has been built up around it.

So we have in Hindooism some beautiful symbols of truth. One of these is depicted in our frontispiece. On the threshold of the temple, in profound silence, lies the Sacred Pool, with its deep, still waters. A strong, knotty tree leans over it and covers it with its shadow. On the marble step stands a Brahmin, robed in clean linen, his arms crossed in the attitude of prayer, waiting for the twilight hour, to purify himself, according to Hindoo rites.

The water is symbolic of the Truth, the tree of the Tree of Life, whose roots are nourished by the water of Truth. The linen garment denotes purity of habits and thoughts; by prayer is invoked the Divine blessing needed when entering the pool, that the physical cleansing power of the water may be conducive to comprehend the cleansing power of the truth to purge the soul from error.

So far the meaning of this rite is beautiful, but besides becoming often meaningless, it lacks one essence, the touch of life. Christ is the Life, the Truth, and the Way, and without Him all beliefs, all faith, all sacrifice, all offerings become meaningless, burdensome and inefficient.

Our Sacred Pool.

found its source on Calvary; it is the cleansing stream that flowed when the wounds of Christ were opened, and it is accessible to all who earnestly seek its cleansing power. No priest is needed to intercede. We have no sacrament with God in His Son. No ordinance or rites are necessary, the heart's willing and obedient response to the cross with Christ. No special time is set, all things are now ready. No central place of pilgrimage is to be journeyed to by the seeker, Calvary's stream flows in every clime and nation.

Remember, sinner, that all your sin deacons to purchase salvation from sin by work, by profession, by observation of fasts and rites, by self-atonement, or any other means but faith in Jesus Christ are vain. And yet the soul naturally seeks deliverance rather than any of the above paths than in the Only Way, which is Christ Jesus, for He says, "I am the Way."

Great Britain.

The General's next continental campaign is fixed for Holland, next month.

Brigadier Roussel, of the Foreign Office, is on the serious sick list, with a mild attack of typhoid.

The party of South African officers is gradually being formed. It will include two officers from the Women's Social Department.

Commissioner Cox has completed her visit to Paris. We are informed that she was much impressed with the devotion of the Parisian officers, and by the prospect for Social Work generally in the gay city.

According to the "Sunday Strand," the Salvation Army in England has a seating accommodation in barracks for 630,000 persons.

The General's visit to Newcastle-on-Tyne will rank among the most useful he has ever had in that northern headquarters of industry. The district is an old battleground of the General's, he reminded his soldiers. Forty-six years ago he saw the stances' eyes quiver with sorrow as they cried "Abba Father!" for the first time. The General thanked God for what he saw then, but further stated that his right hand had not forgotten its cunning, and that he was at the same business still, and no one present could question the statement. 107 people accepted the Pearl of Great Price.

The Self-Denial returns from the various centres of Great Britain are to hand, representing the grateful and splendid total of just upon $250,000; but as these have all to be re-checked, and a few contributions are still outstanding, and as it is also very desirable that the detailed statement should not be published until it is certified as quite correct by our auditors, they are held over for another week. Every Province shows, however, an advance, and among the Divisions whose returns are complete are Liverpool, East London, Bradford, Newcastle, Monmouth, and South Scotland, and these all show splendid results. All ranks seem to have done well; in fact, so far as we can hear, there never has been such gladness and joy in any previous Self-Denial effort. May God reward these brilliant efforts of our British comrades.

Brigadier Ellen Douglas, whose promotion was announced last week, is one of the foremost journalists and writers in the Army. She has already enriched its literature with such charming books as "Brother Francis; or, Less Than the Least," "George Fox, the Red-Hot Quaker," "David Stoner, the Ehy Preacher," "Red Flowers of Martyrdom," and when the "Warrior's Daily Portion: Being Selections from the General's Writings," appears, it will be found that, despite her illness, from which she is happily recovering, her pen has lost none of its own peculiar power.

United States.

The Consul, Mrs. Booth-Tucker, is, we are thankful to say, regaining strength. She still needs a great deal of care and attention. We understand that it is very unlikely that she will be able to do any public work while on her visit to England; but during her stay she has been a great cheer and strength to the General. The visit, as a whole, will prove of real benefit to her health, as well as of value to the work.

South Africa.

General Delarey's generous treatment of Lord Methuen, when a wounded prisoner in his hands, is not only highly creditable to the humanity of the Boer army, but is especially gratifying to Salvationists from the fact that he has in the past been more or less in sympathy with us. Before the war an officer in our ranks came from his family, and we have reason to know that the Delareys, as a whole, are a good stock. We trust that Salvationists everywhere keep themselves always aloof from the wicked cantinables which have been circulated against the British soldiers, and from the equally cruel and false stories of Boer atrocities. Awful as this war has been, and is, it has, at least, had the merit—with the exception of one or two lurid mistakes—of showing how kindly and generously brave men can act towards one another under the most terrible circumstances known to human life.

The new Prison Gate Home which has recently been opened in Pieter-

Market, Mandeville.

Mandeville is an inland town of some importance in the interior of Jamaica. Being two or three thousand feet above the sea level, it is always cool; climate said to be very healthy. It is a great orange district. When the oranges bear well the people can neither sell nor eat them all, but leave them to rot on the trees or beneath them.

Maritzburg, Natal, will undoubtedly meet a long-felt want. So great has been the need for such an institution that the Natal Government has given the Salvation Army $1,500 towards defraying the cost of opening a Home for Discharged Prisoners. This action on the part of the Government has, no doubt, been caused by the excellent work which has been accomplished by our Prison Gate Home in Cape Colony.

The Commissioner was hardly home before he was making arrangements for another trip around the country. The last news is that he was off to Natal for the purpose of doing the Natal Congress, which had been looked forward to for a long time. He was accompanied by Brigadier Bauch, the A.C.S. From Maritzburg the Commissioner went to Johannesburg, having some important business to attend to there.

As an example of the zeal and devotion of some of our Zulu soldiery, we hear that some converts from the Lewis Settlement, up in the direction of the Higgarburg, have intimated their intention to walk down to Durban to attend the Native Council. This will probably take them at least four days to do, and four days on the return journey, yet they look forward to it with glee. Commissioner Kilbey is anxious to make the coming meeting a season of great blessing and stimulus to his officers and soldiers.

Capt. Bennie, of the Kilbey Zulu Settlement, Natal, states that both his Lieutenant and himself are hard at work in completing the erection of their new barracks and quarters. A pleasing feature in their labor is that there is a good spiritual work going on side by side with manual operations.

France.

Commissioner Ralston has gone all through the Territory, and is quite optimistic for the future of our work in France.

Staff-Capt. Eymann has been sent to the Riviera in order to collect money for the different branches of the work, and to open the way for the introduction of the Army in the district in the near future.

Colonel Paschoff, an exile from Russia, one of the oldest friends of the Army, died lately in Paris. Very often he had conducted meetings in some of our corps.

A new hall was opened in the south of France, in the old and quaint city of Arles.

Switzerland.

The General has visited Switzerland. At Rome, on the arrival day of our chief, 121 souls came to the penitent form. At Neuchatel, a speech of the General elicited warm applause. At Basle, Trameau, and Zurich, the General was received with the same enthusiasm.

South America.

The latest issue of the Spanish War Cry, the Grito de Guerra, contains a very fine cut of our own Commissioner, as well as a cut of our Toronto Territorial Headquarters.

During the last few weeks several young men and women have offered themselves as Candidates for the work.

An important council of war is to take place in Buenos Ayres in the last week of March.

India.

Rumor has it that Staff-Capt. Dipti, of the Calcutta Rescue Home, will soon be leaving for Australia. It is sixteen years ago since the Staff-Captain landed in India, with the "First Forty," during which time she has put in loving, devoted service among these poor fallen women for whom she has labored.

The new party of officers from Sweden and the British Field, of whom intimation was given in our last issue, has arrived and passed away to their various appointments, appearing very happy with the prospect of their future lot.

In connection with the departure of Colonel Nurali for England on Burrough, the Commissioner's Staff on Bombay Headquarters undergoes some re-arrangement. Brigadier Mira Singh being appointed to the oversight of the Gujarat and Western Indian Territory during the absence of the Colonel.

We understand that the impressions made by Commissioner Higgins' tour in the Marathi Territory will not be easily effaced from the hearts and minds of all who took part in it, or those who had the privilege of attending the meetings held in the various divisions. From start to finish the fire of the Holy Ghost fell upon the people, God Himself came down in great power, and 34 precious souls surrendered their hearts to the Saviour of the world.

A brother on duty in a fort writes: "We have no place here for meetings, and cannot get out to the prayer-room, so we hold our meetings in an old hut by the side of a railway line, just outside the fort, and we have some very blessed times there. We often wish you could see us sitting round a candle on a pile of bricks. I can assure you we give the devil a hot time of it! We often have some unsaved comrades coming in, and we see their boards hanging down as the Spirit takes hold of them."

HOW TO FORGET.

Memory studies are all the rage nowadays. But every Christian ought to drill himself in the art of forgetting. Forget evil imaginations. Forget the slander you have heard. Forget the meanness of small souls. Forget the faults of your friends. Forget the disagreeable people whose talk poured vinegar into your spirit. Forget all malice, all fault-finding, all injuries, all hardness, all unlovely and distressful things. Start out every day with a clean slate. Be loving. See how much sunshine you can produce.

Belgium and Holland.

Commissioner Cosandey, with Lieut. Colonel Govaerts and Brigadier Palstra have conducted important meetings in Marchienne, Charleroi, and Amsterdam.

Brigadier Malan had to relinquish his command for a few days, having been called to accompany the General through Italy and Switzerland, to act as interpreter.

The General conducted a council of officers in Holland, which was attended by 230 officers.

"And He said unto another, Follow Me, but he said, Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father." Luke ix., 59. Even some Salvationists are slow to obey a command because it has not been laid home to their hearts with power. Fancy a soldier making excuses to his officer! Let us first realize the great importance of the King's business.

"Boast not thyself of to-morrow," Prov. xxvii., 1. Brother Monday said a dying man, "Why have you not been more pressing with me about my soul?" "Dear James," replied the brother, "I have spoken to you several times." "Yes," was the answer; "you are not to blame; but you were always so quiet about it. I wish you had gone on your knees to me, or had taken me by the neck and shaken me, for I have been careless, and have nearly slept myself into hell."

"Seek first the kingdom of God," Luke xii., 31. When a young man began to tell these around him that God had forgiven his sins, his father, greatly offended, gave him this advice, "James, you should first get yourself established in a good trade, and then think of the matter of religion." "Father," said the son, "Jesus Christ advises me differently; he says, 'Seek ye first the kingdom of God!'"

"If any man hear My voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he will be with Me." Rev. iii., 20. In London, such is the hurry of business that the great clock of St. Paul's may strike many times and not be heard.

A great earthquake happened when two armies are in the heat of battle, and none of the combatants knew of it. Preoccupation of mind will prevent the most solemn things from having due weight with us.

"If any man thirst, let him come unto Me and drink," John vii., 37. When a man goes thirsty to the well his thirst is not allayed more by going there. On the contrary, it is increased by every step he takes. It is by what he draws out of the well that his thirst is satisfied. Just so it is not by the mere bodily exercise of waiting upon ordinances that you will ever come to peace, but by tasting of Jesus, whose flesh is meat indeed, and whose blood is drink indeed.—McChoyro.

"I will pray with the spirit, and I will pray with the understanding also," 1 Cor. xiv., 16. Do you find prayers and other holy things in your heart? Or, is it full of vanity, worldliness, ambition and ungodliness? "In prayer the lips are not the winning part. Without the sweet concurrence of the heart."—R. Herriek.

"Preach the Word; be instant in season," 1 Tim. iv., 2. Whatever the season, the Word may creep in to your studies, or into your pursuits of pleasure or of business, let there be one point at least on which you are always watchful, always alive. I mean, in the performance of your religious duties. Let nothing induce you, even for a day, to neglect the perusal of the Scripture. You know the value of prayer. It is precious beyond price. Never, never neglect it.—Buxton to his son.

An act of kindness, a word of sympathy may render the whole line of life different from what it would otherwise have been. There are crises in many a life when the course it shall take for weal or for woe depends upon a slight influence—almost a single word. How careful then should we be that our influence at all times be in the right direction!

Evolution of the Salvation Army

AUSTRALIA.

Perhaps no country has welcomed the Salvation Army with greater heartiness, and offered for its operations a more congenial sphere, than has Australia. Ability and common-sense, especially when combined with virtue, have enjoyed a supremacy in Australia. We can, therefore, give as a reason for the S. A. being so well received in the land of the Southern Cross that the pioneer officers were possessed of these two qualities. But in columns from week to week it has not been our idea to deal with generalities, but to show how the Army has made progress step by step, often under the most adverse circum-stantly grand opportunity. After setting things in order in the four South Australian corps, the Major, who had already obtained financial help by means of a brief visit to Melbourne for this purpose, sailed for that city, in which our Australian Headquarters must needs be established, and there on the Collingwood Flats, with his wife and a few friends made during his previous visit the unfurled the Army flag.

The great Temperance Hall was soon taken for the Sunday services, and the vast audiences assembling there Sunday after Sunday ever since have shown what a hold we had on the masses of that city. Before the stances, as well as at times under more favorable conditions. Therefore, before we consider the present standing of the S. A. in Australia as a whole, we will allow our minds to run back as far as the year 1879, when a man, who by zealous living and hard labor raised his family into comfortable circumstances, emigrated to Adelaide, South Australia, together with a builder who had been converted in Bradford, Yorkshire, and, finding there other old Mission soldiers, they united in establishing a Mission Station, and immediately reported to the General their first services, urgent calling for officers to be sent them. So, at the beginning of 1881, Captain Sutherland, commonly known as Glory Tom, with his valiant wife, were sent out to take command, and from the date of their arrival to that of our latest intelligence "Advance, Australia!" has been a fair description of the manner in which our troops on the other side of the water have carried out the colonial motto.

So rapid was the extension of the work from the beginning that in 1882 it was found necessary to send out Major Barker, with several other officers, that the work might be the more properly organized and advanced with a rapidity equivalent to our close of 1883 we had a large Headquarters and Printing Office for the Colonies in Melbourne, 14 corps in South Australia, 9 in Victoria, and 5 under the superintendence of Major Sutherland in New South Wales; 3 distinct War Cries being issued weekly in the three colonies, and meanwhile an even more romantic advance had been made. On April 1st of '84, Captain Polard, a delicate youth of twenty, whom we had sent to New Zealand with no great hopes of any great work, on account of his health, still thinking that it might be improved and that he might be able to do good service at any rate in a limited way in that colony, with a Lieutenant Wright, aged nineteen, commenced the attack. They broke into their last sovereign to pay in advance the rent of the largest hall they could secure in Dunedin, and so complete was the success of this effort that with the assistance of a couple of officers sent on from Australia, Auckland was attacked the next Sunday, and before the year closed we had ten corps in New Zealand.

At the end of 1884 we had in South Australia, 15 corps, in Victoria, 21, in New South Wales 21, in New Zealand 23, and in Tasmania 3.

The Scripture vs. Our Opinions With Regard to Dress.

By LIEUT. M. J. LANGRIDGE.

I desire to look like other people. Nothing superfluous should be worn because it is in the fashion. "Be not conformed to this world." "If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him."

Professors of religion dress in the fashion. "What is that to thee? Follow thou Me." "Thou shalt not follow a multitude to do evil." Christians should not follow the fashions.

People say there is no harm in adorning the body.

"If any man preach any other Gospel than that ye have received, let him be accursed."

One might as well be out of the world as out of the fashion. "Ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world." "So then every one of us shall give an account of himself to God."

"I can afford to wear these things."

"Ye are not your own, for ye are bought with a price; therefore, glorify God in your body and in your spirit, which are God's."

"So then every one of us shall give an account of himself to God."

"I never had the light."

"Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."

"I do not believe it is wrong to dress as one pleases."

"If ye believe not, yet lie abiding, faithful; He cannot deny Himself."

"We ought not to please ourselves, for even Christ pleased not Himself."

Health Hints.

By BRIGADIER ADDIE.

Cleanliness.—Washing is one of the most necessary things I know for the preservation of health. I never met anyone yet who washed too much; but sadly too many are careless on this point. The cleanliness of the whole body every day prevents colds, headaches, weariness, and all sorts of other slight discomforts. It is a habit, too, which quickly becomes a necessity, once begun it and you will never want to leave it off. The very least anyone should do is to wash to the waist daily, and take a hot bath once a week. There is no hope of preserving good health without plenty of soap and water.

Clothing.—Such matters as well-arranged clothing and bedding, and the constant changing of these, surely do not need mentioning. It is very unwise to go too long without foot. I never allow myself to do it. A little care and thought will always prevent the necessity for such abstinence.

Tea-Drinking.—Much tea-drinking is bad, although there really is no directly suitable substitute for it, but do let me urge you to drink it when freshly made, and not strong, and never to take it late at night. I drink tea at breakfast and at tea-time should be sufficient. A single cup after dinner is less harmful than later in the day.

General Hints.—I never nuzzle my throat and chest up. The less you do this sort of thing, the stronger your chest will be. Do a little drilling, and cultivate the habit of holding your head and shoulders well back, and never have any clothing tight across your chest. Don't have anything tight anywhere. Why should you? It is not comfortable; it is not healthy. Don't be afraid of hard work. As long as you don't strain yourself, and as long as you take proper food and sleep, work is good, and not bad for you. It is worry that kills, not work. Cast your care (in the sense of anxiety and fretting) on the Lord, and yet let every man bear his own burden of responsibility for, and interest in, his work.

How Jack Phil

By B.

Jes wanten tell ye how Jack Phil skert up er prayer.

Jack was an old comrade uv who used ter help me chase when I was doin ther circle over ther Big Horn Country. He was great big, brawly cowhoy, six feet in his stockings, built for all kin weather, an was one uv them kind fellows as are all hone, an musc smiles.

Jack had er long nose, w bridge like er foot adde, slant eyes, long face an er shock o' hair that stood out all round his face er wig uv er Fiji Islander.

Jack was er splendid story-teller, had er voice like er fog horn. See he was lost ther feller ter him with in bad weather, 'cause it was ter get on ther windward side, er raise his voice every jump, yer an yer could hear every word uv es plain es if he was speakin thru er trumpet.

Jack was whizzer proof, an never run er sandy on him yet. He always managed er side ther horses in the outfit, so's yer could give him ther horse laugh es should try. An if he started ter tell a story, an yer didn't hear it, an thought yer could go ter trail on him, old Jack'd be sure ter get ther jump on ye somehow, er hold it, too, er kill his horse try no matter how fast yer rode, he right at yer side every jump, yer in yer ears as ye run. If ther country was rough so's yer horse have ter jump high, er make er tracks gittin round rocks an holes, raise his voice high buff ter down all ther twists an jars, an miss a word. Sometimes, after chase, my ears'd ring like er pipe, Dutch oven lids doin service as fast bells; an Jack's words'd sound in my ears for a week. I've jest he'd uv made a proper Salvationist.

Wal, one time ther old man Jack an I out on Pine, ter look some cattle we'd throwed out ther or three months afore, ter pick ther early spring range, an we w our way ter ther Home Ranch, a ther Big Horn River, where we ter report that night.

We was rithin a pair of broncs, was ridin a little saved-off, but ther Holland plean, with er head er cucumber, an legs like er cucumber, an run fast 'nuff ter chase shadder. But Jack was ridin er fine, rangy horse es handsome deer, an could run like er stretch.

Wal, when we hit trail, Jack's his fog horn by makin fun uv my horse. Then he told me stories. Finally, in four or five he kinder run down like, an I got trail on him, put in er few jumps ther Lord, an begin ter touch him on ther salvation business. I party well fer about ten min then he got his wind back, an begin ter crowd me again, ther first thing I knew he was er run es ever.

"Now, see here, Lazarus, I understand how ye can keep yer ton among us fellows. We're swarin, an lyin, an gamblin, an fun uv yer, yet er don't seem ter any difference ter ye. Yer all happy as er glad horse's head, never get mad, no notion, no nothin, no things come. When yer get bronco ter ride, yer alius go up an never think of comin down w him, an in er few days yer sure have him follerin yer like er dog. An when ye get yer rope of wrong calf ter ride, yer alius turn him without makin er lot of hoat on him, same's ther rest uv us do."

"Then he kinder give me a coter explain myself. So I jest told that I kept saved dead easy, 'cause put in all my spare time prayin near as you take proper food and sleep, work is good, and not bad for you. It is worry that kills, not work. Cast your care (in the sense of anxiety and fretting) on the Lord, and yet let every man bear his own burden of responsibility for, and interest in, his work."

"Talk about prayin, my old man used ter pray fer me, 'cause tought kin, an so I run 'way from so's ther prayers wouldn't wor."

Futile is the search for perpetual motion, the search for perpetual rest is still more so.

RE JUNIOR SOLDIERS' ANNUAL.

Commissioner.

Editorial.

Western troops are delighted with the near realization of their long-cherished hopes, although they have always received a full share of the Commissioner's time. The Commissioner will be greeted with warm and enthusiastic welcomes from the enthusiastic monomanc of her lengthy tour to the finish, and soldiers and friends who cannot be present at the cities and towns visited, will congregate at the wayside stations to be inspired by just a word, or a glance at her face, while no train speeds farther westward.

Ecstasy of Delight

all felt. Of course we were glad—why shouldn't we be? We were all very sure that our leader had left her sick-room and come back to us too quickly, but we all knew how very eager the Commissioner was to be with us again. The doctors said well of her when they called her a "rusher." What this was the first opportunity many had of seeing their leader for some little time. It must not be supposed that of late weeks the Commissioner had not been crowding a great amount of work into every moment of each day, contrary,

Major Collier at Riverside.

On March 31st, the last day of the Sligo, Riverside was favored with a rain from Major Collier. From the seven o'clock knee-drill (which had an attendance of forty-one) to the close of the night meeting, the Major worked hard and faithfully. At night he spoke from the words, "They have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid Him." At night Mrs. Collier was present, and ably assisted the Major. We had the joy of seeing three souls kneeling at the cross for the day. Riverside commands say, "Come again, Major!"—J. J.

Conversion." His address was "hated," he enjoyed. He pleaded hard with the sinner to come to God, and his efforts were rewarded, for two souls wept their way to Calvary. Mrs. Gaskin favored us with some good solos during the day, which were much enjoyed. Altogether, we had a lovely time, and are eagerly waiting for the brigadiers and his wife to return for another weekend. Our collections were much higher than usual. Victory is our motto, and we are determined to have it.—Eva Simpson, Corps-Cadet.

Red Knights at Winnipeg

(By Wire.)

Winnipeg campaign sweeping victory. The large, beautiful Grange three times filled. Thirty seekers. One hundred and thirty-five dollars income. Brigadier Southall and troops enthusiastically over our return visit. For first nine days, three thousand five hundred attended services; forty-two seekers; three hundred and thirty-six dollars income. Party well and in excellent spirits. There was a great spiritual thrill in Brigadier General's presence that infected us all. We were under the influence of new spiritual being and new future service for the world.

Sowing the Wind.

Amherst.—The comrades here are still being led forward to victory by Capt. Anderson. On Thursday night we were reinforced by Capt. White, of Sackville, and Sister Rowe, of Fredericton. We had a service of song entitled "Sowing the wind," which was very touching. Souls are being saved, and we are going in for greater victories in the future.—Jack.

Saved at Seventy Years.

Arnold's Cove.—On Sunday afternoon four were enrolled under the good old Army flag. At night God came very near and blessed us, most much conviction was manifested among the unconverted. One young man went in his seat, but did not get relieved of his burden of sin until Monday night, when he came and got the victory. While visiting we found an old lady about 70 years of age unconverted, and while singing and praying with her she was led to rejoice over sins forgiven. We are believing for greater things in the near future.—E. B. Bowering.

A Notable Capture.

Blaketown.—For some time we have been endeavoring to get a barracks here, and at last the building is being erected. The devil's ranks have been broken, and we have captured the worst man in the place, one who has never attended a religious service for fourteen years. His wife has also taken her stand for God. He kindly gave us the land for our barracks. Capt. Bagges, from Dildo, is of the right material and our D. O. is paying us good attention.—Sergeant-Major

Ten Souls Last Week.

Bowmanville.—The war is still going on and sinners are getting saved. The last week of the Siege ten souls sought Christ. They are all doing well and taking their stand for God. Still greater things are expected. The Kingdom of God shall be built up and the devil defeated.—One Who is Interested.

A Good Time.

Burlington.—We are getting along very well here under the leadership of Ensign Hutt. Capt. Foote has paid us a visit with his magic lantern. The views were splendid, and we had a good time.—Royer.

Two Soldiers Enrolled.

Campbellford.—We are having victory in our souls. On Good Friday we had with us Adj. Moore and Brother Spencey. The Adjutant enrolled two more soldiers under the dear old flag. Capt. and Mrs. Brimson are working hard for souls.—A Soldier.

The P. O.'s Visit.

Clinton.—We have just had a visit from our worthy P. O. and Chancellor, also Adj. Combs. Gail came very near. The Major gave a good straight nothings talk, which resulted in our seeking the blessing of a clean heart. The meetings during the week were conducted by the band, finishing up with a band concert. On Monday night Capt. Kitchen and Lieut. Yeomans, from Seaford, were present to help with their singing. The program was excellent, and great credit is due to Bandmaster Clark and his aides, who worked hard to make it the success it was. Our hearts' prayer is, "Lord, give us souls."—E. W.

Three Days With the D. O.

Everett.—Our D. O., Adj. Blackburn, with his wife and Oudor, have spent three nights with us. God was in our midst in power. Members of different churches came in to help us, and our soul was snatched from the devil's grip.—J. S. S. M. Mrs. Rountrie.

A Church Meeting.

Forest.—Major McMillan, accompanied by Staff-Capt. Hawling and Adj. Combs, has just visited our corps and conducted a meeting in the Methodist Church, which was much enjoyed. The Major while here made arrangements for us to go back into the old barracks. On Sunday afternoon we rejoiced to see one precious soul seeking salvation. Capt. Plant, who has been leading us on for some time, is under farewell orders.—Sister Levitt.

Guilt or Not Guilty.

Fredericton.—Last Thursday night we had a very special meeting, led by Ensign Allen, of Woodstock, N.B., which was much enjoyed by the good crowd present. On Sunday, in spite of the wet weather, our meetings were well attended, and the finances were good. Ensign Williams took for his text on Sunday evening, "Guilty or not guilty," and as the truth was spoken conviction was stamped on many faces, and we believe the seed sown will bring forth fruit to God's honor and glory.—Redbird.

A Fine Herd.

Grand Forks.—Dear Ned.—Wal, old boy, I'm back to G. F. waggon again. An jest 'lowed as how I'd order let yer know how we're comin on with the "round-in Siege." Wal, I'm havin the same old singin up horses. Ensign Wilkins is still head wrangler, an gives me outside circle and double night guards. We're gettin as fine a herd together as ever made tracks, an they keep roundin in. Wolves are bad this year, but so far we've kept 'em from stampedin our herd. The Salvation brand is the only one that will bear inspection, an we're runnin their genuine iron, an mean ter have our soldier up for the quote when the count's sent in. The other night the Ensign gave us a lecture on "Eight and a half years before the mast, by one who did it." After we had watched him sail about the earth eight and a half years in company with the devil, he finally goes ashore at Victoria, Canada, attends a Salvation Army meeting, and gets saved. Then their lesson, "God saves ter the uttermost," followed by a rousin prayer meeting, an after meetin closed an we all said dome. God bless our Ensign an the ship.—Buckskin Brady.

According to Your Faith.

Great Falls.—The fight is still going on in this city, and souls are being born into the Kingdom. Our dear leader, Adj. Yerex, was called to her home, near Peterboro, owing to the illness of her mother, who has since come to the mansions above. We pray that the Adjutant may have sustaining help from above in her trouble. Lieut. Lewis is in charge of the corps. God has greatly blessed her work, sinners have been convicted, and, praise God, four were converted. This week the collections are just what she asked

He took from his pocket a pack of cards and gave them to me, saying, "These will not be any more good to me." I quickly committed them to the flames.—Ensign W. E. Parsons.

Fourteen at the Cross.

Lisowel.—During the last three weeks we have had six for salvation and eight renewed their covenant. Increase in the marches, crowds, and finances are good. We have doubled our B. O. L. membership, and enrolled three Juniors. We are in need of a new building, and before long we trust things will be in a shape to build. The work in Lisowel is progressing, and we are believing for an outpouring of God's Holy Spirit.—J. Bonny, Capt.

Seniors and Juniors Enrolled.

Medicine Hat.—We have just had a visit from our G. B. M. Agent, Ensign Staiger, which was enjoyed by all. His lantern service, entitled "Example versus Precept," was very interesting and has proved very profitable to all. The barracks was packed to the doors. On Sunday we had two enrollments. In the afternoon Capt. Flaws, who is a great Junior worker, enrolled five Juniors, and in the evening Ensign Staiger enrolled two Seniors, one of them being the Sergt.-Major's wife and the other the Recruiting Sergeant's wife.—Heck.

Blessed Seasons.

Minerastown.—We are having some blessed seasons. Our soldiers' meetings are times of rich blessing, and the General's letters are greatly enjoyed by all. On Tuesday night we had two brothers out for the blessing. "No retreat," is our motto.—Laidlaw.

Seven Were Enrolled.

Oshawa.—We had a good time on Good Friday. Seven took their stand under the flag as soldiers. We had a red-hot meeting. Corps-Cadet Routley, of Brooklin, and Lieut. Marskell were with us. We are going in for greater things.—C. H. B.

Temple Triumphs.

STAFF-CAPT. AND MRS. STANYON
With the Training Home Staff and Cadets, Conduct Easter Services at the Temple—13 Souls and Over $350.00 Collection.

Saturday night started off with a lively open-air and meeting in the Jubilee Hall. The Cadets were in good spirits for the coming campaign, and their singing and interesting little talks on the subject, "When, where, and how converted," finishing up by giving their present experience, were appreciated.

At 6.30 Easter morning, the officers, Cadets, band, and soldiers, numbering over 50, went for a march, playing and singing, "Up from the grave He arose." Ninety people met together at the early knee-drill to receive a blessing.

At 11 a.m. a good crowd gathered, and in the holiness meeting the presence of God was manifested in our midst. Earnest exhortations to a life of consecration were given, and then the "thank-offering" was put in the plates at the front. The Staff-Captain read the lesson and gave an earnest appeal. Three sought a deeper work of grace.

At 3 p.m., after a rousing open-air, we found a large crowd present at the Jubilee Hall. Lively singing and bright testimonies started the meeting in full swing. Staff-Capt. Stanyon explained the new system of training and the progress that had already been made by the Cadets during the past five weeks. He spoke of the advantages each had of being instructed through the lessons, lectures, etc., that would, with the union of the Holy Ghost, make them successful leaders in our great Army. One or two solos were most sung by the Cadets, and Capt. Trickey read from the Word of God. Throughout the day kind mention was made by different ones (including the bandmen) of the very remarkable accident that had occurred the day previous to the Treasurer, Willie Lang, who lost his right arm. Fervent prayers were uttered on his behalf, and also for his friends. Good crowds attended the open-air all day, and gave liberally in the offerings.

At night the large hall was well filled, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, and after some singing and earnest appeals to the ungodly, a solo or two was sung, and then the Staff-Captain read from God's Word and earnestly pleaded with those present held by the thrall of sin to surrender to God. Several knelt for pardon.

On Monday night all were pleased to see Mrs. Stanyon. A song was lined out, and the crowd present took hold well. It had been announced that Cadet Richardson, of H. M. S. Buzzard, would give an account of his conversion on board ship through a laze visiting the saloon with War Cry; also that he would speak about the S. A. Naval and Military League. The people were much interested. Cadet White, who had never seen snow until he came to the T. H., spoke about his first impressions. His account of Bermuda was quite interesting. Several others sang and spoke, after which Ensign Brehaut read a few verses of Scripture, and urged the wanderers present to surrender to God. After a well-fought prayer meeting, led by the Staff-Captain, two young men walked out and cried for forgiveness. This brought our campaign to a close, and we rejoiced not only over $35 for the Easter meetings, but for thirteen souls who came out boldly seeking the Saviour.

Adit and Mrs. MacAmmond, the officers in charge, had everything well arranged, and did all they could to make the meetings a success.—T.

Good-Bye, Lisgar Street!

After spending fifteen months at Lisgar St. corps, Mrs. Sims and I have received orders to proceed to Lindsay. During our stay many victories have been won. We have been surrounded by a band of blood-and-iron soldiers, who have been a blessing to us, and stood by us in every battle. God bless them. Many souls have been saved from lives of sin, several of whom have taken their stand as out-and-out soldiers. The Self-Denial and Harvest Festival efforts were great victories, more money being raised than in any previous years. The interior of the barracks has been thoroughly painted at the cost of about $100.

A hearty welcome awaits the new officers, Adit and Mrs. Bale. God bless them. Good-bye, Lisgar St. soldiers and friends. I praise God that we were ever permitted to fight His battles together. Go on to greater victories.—Adit Sims.

Picton Siege.

The Picton Braves have managed to accomplish a little during the siege, having had five converts, of which three have been enrolled, and one whose name was already on the roll. We also expect to secure a Corps-Cadet as a result of the Siege. Two of 1901 Siege converts are teachers in the Company meetings and earnest workers in this year's Siege. On Friday we enrolled six new soldiers, some having been saved previous to the Siege. God grant that these six may prove regular busters for God and souls.

Mrs. Pugh and Capt. Hickman deserve great credit for the manner in which they have conducted the Siege, the writer being still "hors de combat."—Richard Pugh, Ensign.

The Final Charge.

Hamilton II.—Sunday being the final day of the Siege, and also Easter Sunday, our crowds were very good. In the holiness meeting two came forward. In the afternoon, in spite of the rain, a very good crowd gathered and a profitable hour was spent. Bro. Grey, that old-time fiery warrior, was there, and gave us a little talk, which was appreciated by all. Mother Moore sang her usual solo. The night meeting was a time of blessing and encouragement. The subject, "Call upon Him," was appropriate, and we rejoiced over one of the finest sights we have seen since coming here, namely, eleven kneeling at the Mercy Seat. Seven of these were children, three of them being over twelve years of age. Thirteen souls for the day was a glorious wind-up to the Siege here. We are still going on, and expect greater things are in store for us. The warriors of No. II. have fought well right through the Siege.

Good Friday was announced as the Siege enrolment, and though at seven o'clock it poured with rain, a very good crowd was present to sing the first song at eight. Bro. Irving sang his favorite solo, "The Renter," which caught on. Ten took their stand under the colors, and were enrolled as soldiers. The enrolment was followed by a picnic. The Siege has been a great blessing to us, and there is no reason why many more should not take the step our comrades have.—Froggie.

Sergt. Mrs. Townshend. Sergt. Nickerson. Sergt.-Major Morgan. Sergt. Mrs. Morgan.

We here reproduce a photo of the Convert Sergt.-Major, also four visiting Sergeants, of Halifax I corps, who, during the Siege, visited 135 houses, 225 houses, and prayed in 135 houses. They are healthy specimens of Salvationists, for their total arrolments amounts to 301 lbs. "Who says visiting will kill people?" Adit. Dowell says remarks.

Belleville Receives Major Galt.

We have just been favored with a visit from Major Galt and Capt. LeDrew. During their stay large and appreciative audiences gathered to hear them. We had a meeting in our barracks, and the next afternoon the Major gave an hour's address to the ladies of the city. A very large audience greeted her, and although the writer was not permitted to remain, on enquiry he found everyone was delighted with the meeting.

In the evening a large number gathered to hear the Major. She handled her subject with such power that they sat for two hours, giving the most rapt attention. Although but two people showed evidence of a desire to serve God, we believe that much good will result from the meeting. We desire to thank our kind friends, the Bridges St. Methodists, not only for their kindness in granting the use of their church, but also for their liberality in handing us the offerings taken at the door, amounting in all to nearly twenty-dollars. The universal opinion is that the Major should have put in a week here. However, we are thankful that they did pay us a visit, and for the spiritual help we received therefrom.—S. C. O. T. Y.

EASTER FESTIVITIES.

Major and Mrs. Hargrave Visit the Capital City.

Easter Sunday was celebrated in Helena with appropriate and impressive meetings in commemoration of our risen Saviour, the services being in keeping with that memorable event, so sacred to those who are following in the footsteps of the Prince of Peace.

As had been previously announced, the Army was reinforced by Major and Mrs. Hargrave and Ensign Andrews. The open-air services were characterized by large crowds, who gave close attention to all that was said, and showed their appreciation by giving liberally in the collections. On Saturday night the Major spoke briefly and earnestly on the uncertainty of death, and urged upon those present the necessity and desirability of preparing themselves for this. The Major is an eloquent and forcible speaker, and never fails to hold an audience in rapt attention. The writer was much pleased to meet and shake hands with the Major and his amiable wife.

On Sunday forenoon a delegation of the Army, headed by Ensigns Andrews and Sheard, visited the county fell and gave the prisoners spiritual consolation and comfort.

In the evening Mrs. Hargrave addressed the people, taking for her subject the parable of the ten virgins. The audience was delighted with the speaker's charming personality and rare gift of speech. She spoke of the Salvation Army, and interspersed her remarks with many personal incidents, having been identified with the organization almost from its inception. She then spoke of her own delightful experiences, and pointed out that in spite of man's interpretation of the truth of Christ's religion, in spite of the benedictions cast upon the church, the great forces set in motion by the birth, life, and death of Christ for the world's redemption, have swept mankind steadily and irresistibly onward.

The Army here is progressing nicely, having recently established what is known as a "Rummage Sale," where fancy work, pictures, clothing, and a large variety of useful and ornamental articles are being sold to help their good work. Connected with the Rummage Sale is a lunch counter, where ice-cream and cake are sold. The situation is well patronized, and its financial success is assured. The people of Helena love the Army, both for their patriotism and good work. May God bless them.—John McDonald.

The Burk House, of Burk's Falls, had over $3 in their box.

Note.—Other hotels please note.

A boxholder at Surgeon Falls says that his box is one of the luckiest things he ever had. Whenever he puts ten cents in he always gets a job.

Moral.—It pays to be generous.

Reports will come in early in the week. Waiting for a few straggling corps.

The new boxes, I notice, are supplied not only with a mouth, but teeth. These teeth close up when an attempt is made to get the money out. Therefore what you put in cannot possibly be shaken out. Some people would like to take back what they due to the Lord, but we try to make this desire impossible of fulfillment.

A little newsboy entered the Trade Office the other night, sold his paper, and seeing the G. B. M. Box on the counter, said, "I will put that (meaning the money he got for the paper) in the poor box."

Sequel.—He went home happy.

EFFICIENT METHOD OF RESTORING LIFE.

A Parisian physician, Dr. J. V. LeBorde, has perfected a method of restoring life in case of drowning and suffocation which appears to be more successful than any method hitherto practiced. Persons who have been apparently dead for three hours or more have, in this way, been brought back to life. It is called "rhythmic tongue-traction," and consists in the periodical pulling of the tongue from twenty to twenty-five times per minute. This can be done with the hand, a handkerchief being wrapped about the tongue, but it is more easily and regularly performed by means of a simple machine driven by clock-work. The method has come into use in many hospitals in this country as well as in Europe, and the results are regarded as very valuable. The effectiveness of tongue-traction is based upon the fact that it directly excites the pneumogastric nerve, which is the nerve governing the action of the heart and lungs. In cases of drowning, tongue-traction is more effective than the common method of working the arms up and down to restore breathing.

There is no virtue in doing right simply because we have to.

To demand nothing and to complain of no one is an excellent receipt for happiness.

Taught by God.

By J. E. C.

FOR years I had been familiar with the doctrine of holiness, but even professed and taught it, yet had never really become established in that life. Afterwards, through poor health and circumstances, I completely lost all the experience I had enjoyed, and drifted into a dark and very wretched state of mind, with seemingly no power to raise myself out of it, or even to lay hold upon God with faith for deliverance. I felt that my life was a wreck, a failure, and that there was nothing more for me but death.

I did not go into wilful sin, but did not live a life of victory and joy, daily longing and praying for someone to come to my help, to deal with me and lead me back to life and peace. I went to the corps where I belonged when convenient and I felt able, but did not receive the blessing. No one seemed to care. So the months went by till late in the fall, when one week, while I was kept in the house by sickness and bad weather, God Himself spoke

I pondered over it until I dropped to sleep; it was on my waking thoughts and as I turned the pages of the Bible seeking light, the words of Christ flashed into my mind, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life; no man cometh to the Father but by Me." Even then I could not see the way.

The next to give light was in my regular morning reading—"For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God." This is being lost in God. And then, how could I manifest it in my life and work? "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above." "Set your affections on things above, not on things on the earth." God supplies all the need; we are lost in Him and partake of His goodness. "All things are yours."

Dead—dead to the old life, buried, quickened into new life, the past blotted out, now a new life, new chances to serve God. "Mortify your members," put off all the sins of the past. Here is the cleansing, and God gave me the faith to claim it there and then.

Next, put on, cultivate the graces which are the fruit of the Spirit. This means the filling of the Spirit, God giving me the power to claim this also by faith.

I definitely claimed Christ, and the rising with Him into a new life, a life hid with Him in God. I claimed the perfect cleansing and reckoned myself dead unto sin. I then learned many lessons about to me, and led me step by step into the light.

One night I had been sitting up late reading. When I had finished, according to my usual custom, before preparing for bed, I took my Bible to read, much depressed, feeling my need keenly. I opened to a familiar verse, heavily marked—"But my God shall supply all your need, according to His riches in glory, by Christ Jesus."

Like a flash the thought came to me of a soul lost in God, partaking of His fulness, every need—not so much the physical or temporal, but rather the spiritual, the needs of the soul, the needs of the innermost being. Like a little cloud running into a mass of clouds and becoming lost in it, a part of it; a little drop of man falling into the ocean, being swallowed up, losing its identity, partaking of the life of the ocean. Our identity lost, because we have so become a part of God that the world will no more see us, but God in us, no more the petty self, its acts and desires, but God alone.

But in another sense, our individuality is not lost. Modified perhaps, the better part of us, which is made in the image of God, this remains to work for God as He works in and through us. The little drop of rain, being once more drawn up into the cloud, now falls upon a thirsty flower or wilting leaf, to bring refreshment and new life; or with more of its kind, to fill a brook dried up by summer's heat, its identity not lost, but fulfilling its mission.

studying the Word and keeping it in my mind.

Immediately God gave me work to do, sending me out to do the work I had previously shrunk from, and giving me power and victory. Now my whole thought and desire is to be made a blessing to all around me, to be used by God as He sees fit.

HELPING NATURE ALONG.

The value of electricity as a stimulant in the growth of plants is just beginning to be understood. Various experiments have been made in Germany to determine the best method of applying the electric influence. Stimulation in the seeds before they are planted has been tried, and also stimulation in the air surrounding the growing plants by means of a system of wires discharging electricity; but the most effective plan seems to be that which was adopted in a market-garden near Paterson, New Jersey, not long ago. This consists simply in passing a feeble electric current through the soil containing the seeds and young plants. The Paterson experimenter got his current from a trolley-power cable. In some cases, it is said, the productivity of a given area of ground can thus be increased three-fold. Not only are the electrically stimulated plants about twice as rapid as ordinary plants in their growth, but they are also twice as vigorous and luxuriant.

After Seventeen Years.

God's Doings for Sergt-Major William Richards, of Lindsay, Ont.

WAS it any wonder he drank when there was always whiskey at home either under the table or under the bed? Willie therefore acquired the appetite for drink at an early age. He can well remember his first drink. His mother had gone to an excursion and he, taking advantage of her absence, went with some other boys and got drunk. His mother worked at a private house and at one time Willie helped her carry water, but he was able to get for himself something else to drink beside water, and became so helpless his father had to carry him home.

Religion—well, he never knew much about it until his father joined the church. "He sucked to it," as the subject of our story says, "then broke out again drinking heavily."

Time passed on, and William went to work at a livery stable.

With the desire for drink ruling him, he became an easy prey to the tempter's power.

He almost got killed on several occasions. Once when in the capacity of mail carrier he got so drunk that the postmaster would not give the mail to him.

After leaving stage driving he went to work at a hotel, where he had opportunities of getting drunk and took advantage of them. He has known what it is on one winter's night to Lay Out on a Snowbank for Hours.

He even practised sleeping in sheds and stables. Poor chap! He proved the wages of sin did not always give him a feather bed.

Not only in Canada, but in the United States, did William pursue his downward way. He can entertain memories of his stay in that land not the most pleasant. It was there he was twice robbed. It was there God brought a judgment upon him for breaking the Sabbath. Yes, he proved the way of the transgressor hard.

But there came a change. William had come in contact with and joined the Army, yet was a number of others he fell away after a short while and began to drink worse than ever. One day a friend asked him if he would like to quit the drink, and asked him to join the temperance society. He put the blue ribbon on next day, but he knew that would not hold him, so he never rested until he found Christ.

He had quite a struggle. At last, however, the light shone in and he was born again. All old things passed away and everything became new. He was enrolled in the Army, and

Has Been a Soldier for Seventeen Years.

Truly it is a severe rebuke to many who doubt the ability of God to keep. William has his own home now, and all paid for. He gave up tobacco the day after he renounced his drink, so the outlay of money for these two articles was stopped and his coppers turned to good account.

His tobacco habit was broken off rather strangely, for though God had spoken to him to give it up, he did not promise he would, but intended to get some more. He went to the shop, but found it shut; he thereupon shut his heart against it once and for all. He can handle both liquor and tobacco now, sealed or unsealed, but it has no effect upon him. All glory to the Christ who saved him! All his seventeen years of soldiering he has worked at a hotel, but God has kept him, and you will find the Sergeant-Major of Lindsay corps, with a saved daughter by his side, who pleads the cause of Lazarus and gathers the pennies for the unfortunate. Yes, God was true to the uttermost all who come to Him through Christ.

William Richards has become a worker, not an idler. He collected $20 for St. Denis last year. He has also been healed bodily and gives God the glory for that.

He proves Christ to be an all-sufficient Saviour.

May many others take a lesson and so prove their Lord.

THE HYGIENE CLASS.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Rheumatism.—Inflammatory rheumatism requires the attendance of an experienced person. The wandering pains from which many people suffer, which are commonly called rheumatism, can be relieved by proper attention.

1. Avoid the use of irritating condiments, tea, coffee, tobacco, and alcoholic liquors, including wine, beer, etc. Avoid also gross food, and the use of food or drink containing saline matters. Be temperate in all things.

2. Dress warmly and uniformly. Silk or buckskin underwears, worn next the cotton underclothing, give great relief to many. Wear flannel the whole year.

3. Apply heat to the painful parts, as in neuralgia. The hot air and vapor baths are good. Keep the skin clean. Exercise freely.

Colic.—The usual causes are indigestion and constipation. Administer a copious enema to secure a free passage from the bowels. Apply dry, hot cloths or hot fomentations over the abdomen. Percuss and knead the addomen gently, to promote action of the bowels. Hot drinks do very little good, and usually as little harm. For an infant, fold a thick woolen blanket, wet one end in water as hot as can be borne, wring it so that it will not drip, and apply the wet end over the abdomen, wrapping the remainder round the body. It is often surprising to mark the almost instantaneous relief which follows. The application must be hot, not simply warm, and must be renewed every five or ten minutes, until relief is obtained. Nearly all abdominal pains may be relieved in the same way.

Convulsions.—The convulsions of children—commonly called spasms, or fits—are usually due either to worms or indigestion, unless they occur in the course of some acute disease. Place the child at once in a hot bath, disturbing it as little as possible. It will usually recover in a few minutes. When sufficiently recovered administer an enema to free the bowels, and keep the child perfectly quiet. Some advise the cold bath, and practice it with good success. The patient should be rubbed vigorously during the cold bath.

Epileptic convulsions require more than simple domestic treatment. The most that can be done for the patient during the fit is to prevent him from injuring himself or others. The lips and tongue are often severely bitten by the epileptic action of the muscles of the jaws closing the teeth together upon them. This may be prevented by placing a piece of soft wood or other material between the teeth at the beginning of the fit. As the patient usually sleeps for some time after the attack, the brief interval of consciousness which immediately follows it should be occupied in getting him into a comfortable position.

Hysteria.—This peculiar disease is most common in women, though sometimes observed in men. It is a real disease, and should be treated as such. The symptoms are fully as varied as the causes. Hysteria may simulate almost any disease. Place the patient on a sofa, beside which put a large vessel. Hold the head of the patient over the vessel, and pour cold water upon it from a picher held a few feet above. Apply at the same time cold to the chest and spine, and hot bricks or bottles to the feet. This treatment may be continued for an hour or two without injury, if the patient does not recover sooner. Speedy relief is usually secured, if the patient become quite chilly, apply warm cloths to the chest and shoulders.
